

in here. It feels much better just sitting here without the clutter. I do wish I had so music while I was cleaning. I think time would have gone by faster.

3:45pm

I found some board games!! I totally forgot I bought these games at the beginning of quarantine. I'm definitely going to play these with my siblings later.

8:07pm:

I unexpectedly fell asleep after cleaning my room so much. My mom started cooking dinner so I'm going to play the games I found with my brothers & sister.

11:37pm:

Dinner was really good & game night with my siblings was great & fun until my brother started cheating during monopoly & got mad when he lost trouble. I should have guessed that this would happen since he does it all the time. Maybe that's why I hid all the games & forgot about them. Now to pass time I'm gonna make some earrings with this shrinking paper I bought. I'm not the best artist so I'm praying that they come out good.